LOYTEC reinforces quality management

Stefan Holzer joins the team

LOYTEC electronics, specialized in innovative building automation solutions, reinforces its team of employees at the Viennese headquarters. Stefan Holzer (35) assumes the management of the testing department and the quality tests of the locally manufactured electronic devices. So from now on he is responsible for the necessary development and automation of the testing facilities. Thereby he will contribute in an essential way to LOYTEC's quality assurance system in the long run.

Holzer graduated from Technical University Vienna, Faculty of Electrical Engineering and Information Technology, as a Doctor of Technical Sciences. Subsequently he became co-founder of Global TCAD Solutions, a company specialized in the development of Electronic Design Automation (EDA) - software. Following this he joined Synopsis Switzerland, world market leader in EDA-software, as Senior Application Engineer. After that he spent a year at Technical University Zurich to take part in some research projects.
